

MANY FOREIGNERS COME TO AMERICA

Problem of Tightening Nation's Immigration Laws Faces Congress.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, October 19.—When Congress meets again in December one of the first things that will claim the attention of the national lawmakers will be a tightening of the immigration laws as a result of the attempted assassination of Colonel Roosevelt by Schrank, a native of Bavaria. Those members of Congress who are in Washington now do not hesitate to say that serious consideration will be given the subject, and that not only will the present immigration laws receive important amendments, but that in all probability there will be a much more rigid enforcement of those already on the statute books hereafter.

When President McKinley was shot at Buffalo, subsequently dying from the wounds received, Congress immediately began a revision of the immigration laws, and all but closed the doors to the hordes of foreigners coming to the United States from certain portions of the Old World, especially Southern Europe. From that time up to the present efforts have been made to still further restrict immigration, and while much time has been spent considering the matter it remains a fact that every year witnesses a larger number of undesirable citizens coming to the United States than in the year previous.

At the office of the Commissioner of Immigration it was said that while figures for the present year were not yet available, that it was quite likely that all previous records would be broken. It is certain that the figures will reach beyond the million and a half mark.

Taking the year 1908, a year when figures were low, it is shown that immigrants coming to the United States numbered slightly less than 1,000,000, while the year previous showed 1,258,345, and the nine years previous to 1908 were what might be called "banner" years in immigration. Since 1908 the figures have been constantly increasing, and 1912 is expected to break all records.

Where do these people—more than a million of them a year—go when they reach the United States and pass through Ellis Island, Boston, Philadelphia, Galveston, New Orleans, Seattle, San Francisco and other immigration stations? This was a question that the immigration officials could not answer when put to them to-day. There is no possible way, it was said, to indicate where these people—men, women and children, wandering from their native lands for one reason or another—go when they reach the American shores. They scatter here, there everywhere, and soon become part and parcel of the 9,000,000 people in the United States.

The report of the Commissioner of Immigration for the present year will have some strong recommendations bearing on this subject as a result of the McKinley assassination and the more recent wounding of Colonel Roosevelt, but their exact nature will not be made known until the meeting of Congress.

GERMAN CITIZENS LEAD IN AMERICA

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, October 19.—The United States has been called the melting pot of the peoples of the world, and never did the President have more work to do than at present. Statistics just compiled by the census bureau show that the white foreign males of twenty-one years or over now in the United States—continental United States—number 6,646,817. The total number of white native-born males of twenty-one years or over is only 17,669,757.

There are 2,642,117 white men born in other countries, who, if not disqualified because of offenses against this government or because of unsound mind, are able to cast their votes for presidential electors in November.

the government buildings in New Orleans, Atlanta and Memphis.

Post-Office on Main Floor.

The main floor is devoted exclusively to the post-office department. On the west side are located the offices of the postmaster and assistant postmaster. On the main corridor, running parallel to Main Street, open the windows of the superintendent of mails, held for postage clerk, and special delivery clerk. Here also are the general delivery windows, one for women and one for men, three stamp windows, and another which will probably later be used in connection with the domestic parcels post.

On the east side are located the money-order and registry windows, as well as the cashier's office. The private lock boxes are ranged on the east end of the main corridor and on the east side.

Under the central skylight, occupying an immense well-lighted room, is installed the machinery of the post-office department proper, with its sorting tables, mail shuttles, city-delivery racks, cancelling machines and the other paraphernalia of the modern mailing room.

Most of the furniture in this department is new and in line with the newest post-office equipment. Of this type will be an improved Cummins pick-up table, a recently patented device for automatically sorting envelopes according to their length, to facilitate the work of the cancelling machines.

Revenue Office, Second Floor.

The various offices of the internal revenue department will be ranged on the second floor. Here will be the offices of the collector of customs, of the railway mail service, of the collector of internal revenue, of the marine service, of the bureau of animal industry, and of the United States district attorney.

On the third floor will reign the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. A suite of offices for the judge and clerk of the court will overlook Main Street, and the courtroom will front on the Bank Street side. On this floor also will be the office of the United States marshal.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals will be on the fourth floor, directly over the district court. Other offices on this floor will provide quarters for the circuit court judges. One room will be assigned to the department of United States civil service examinations.

Built for the Future.

The building, which will be thrown open to the public to-day, will be large enough to serve the city when it reaches a population of 500,000. All the offices are spacious and given over for the installation of additional equipment as the increase of business demands.

The adequacy of the new structure for a far greater Richmond than now dwells by the James is further assured by the departmental policy of installing substitutions to meet the increase of business. The substitution plan of handling the mails of a large city has been given the stamp of approval by the Post-Office Department and will in all probability be still greater enlarged in the future.

AMERICAN LIVES MUST BE GUARDED

entirely without information of the progress of the revolt. There was a very general feeling of apprehension among officials that the new insurrection would before long lose its local character and become nation-wide.

Both the cruisers Tacoma and Des Moines are expected to reach Vera Cruz within a few days. They will send landing parties into the city if American lives are jeopardized, but officials here do not think this will be necessary.

It was denied at the department to-day that any agents of Diaz had called to solicit support for their movement. It was stated that the department's policy of noninterference will be strictly adhered to.

Ready to Give Battle.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Vera Cruz, Mexico, via Guatemala, October 19.—General Felix Diaz announced to-night that he was ready to give battle to the forces of President Madero, and the engagement will likely open at dawn to-morrow, twenty-five miles west of this port. Two thousand soldiers under Diaz are well equipped with arms and ammunition, and the new rebel leader has vast stores of foodstuffs in this city to draw upon. It is now known that before embarking in this insurrection Diaz received a shipment of war munitions. This ship is supposed to have been loaded at Havana, the war material being reshipped from that port after arrival from France. Another vessel with ammunition and guns is reported on its way from the same place.

Former President Diaz, uncle of the new leader, is reported as the financial backbone of this revolution. The elder Diaz is worth more than $10,000,000 in gold, and reliable officials here who have deserted Madero's standard say the deposed President has placed $20,000,000 at the disposal of his nephew.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY IN THE MICELLAS CHAPEL.

Firenze, Italy, October 19.—Eugene Cambrone, who is engaged in engineering work in the New York Subway, is supervising the restoration of the Chapel of Santa Maria Novella. He has made an interesting discovery in the Rupestre Chapel. Fragments were found on both sides of the altar, the subjects of the frescoes so far traced are the "Massacre of the Innocents" and the "Crucifixion."
